THIRD ANNUAL MESSAGE.

PRESIDENT BUCHANAN.

Thirty-Sixth Congress.

MESSAGE.

Fellow citizens of the Ecnate and House of Represen-Almighty Power which has bestowed upon us such varied and numerous blessings throughout the past varied and numerous bleadings throughout the past year. The general health of the country has been excellent; our harvests have been unusually pleoti-ful, and prosperity smiles throughout the land. In-deed, not sithstanding our demerits, we have much reason to believe from the past events in our history, that we have enjoyed the special protection of D. vice Providence ever since our origin as a nation. We have been exposed to many threatening and alarming difficulties in our progress; but on each successive occasion the impending cloud has been dissipated at the moment it appeared ready to burst upon our head, and the danger to our institutions has passed a fact, and we ever be under the divine guidance and protection!

whiles it is the duty of the President "From time to the to give to Congress infor action of the start of the Utano", I shall not refer in detail to the recontent and subbody occurrences at Harper's Forry, Sul, and bloody occurrences at Harper's Forry, Sul, and bloody occurrences at Harper's Forry, Sul, and broad the such that the such that the such that and credit in the such that and or content the such that the such that and or content the such that the such that and or content that the such that t

Congress possesses the sole and exclusive power, under the Constitution, "to declare war." They alone can "raise and support armies," and "provide and maintain a nay," But after Congress shall have declared war, and provided the force necessary to earry it on, the President, as Commander-in Chief of the Army and Navy, can alone employ this force in making war against the enemy. Tasis is the plain in gausse, and history proves that it was the well known intention of the framers of the Constitution.

The tree frog acquires the color of whatever it adheres to for a short time. If it is found on the oak it is a brown color, on the sycamore or cedar he is of a whitish brown color, on the sycamore or cedar he is growing corn he is sure to be green. Just so is is with young men. Their companions tell as what their characters are; if they measured with the vulger, the lisentious, and the profess, then their hearts are already stained with their guilt are summer and they will themselves become able victous. The study of bed books, or the leve of wicked companions, is the breadust and most certain road to ruit, that a young men can travel, and a few well directed lessons in this will like he on, step by step, to the gate of contraction.
